

Magnetism 2015

30–31 March 2015

University of Leeds, Leeds, UK

<http://magnetism2015.iopconfs.org>

The magnetism research community in the UK and Republic of Ireland is highly active and covers a broad range of leading-edge topics. This meeting aims to showcase this research work and provide an opportunity for the community to meet and network. Magnetism 2015 will be held on 30–31 March 2015 and follows the similar and successful conference in 2014. We invite abstract submissions from academic researchers, postdocs, students and researchers within industry.

Invited speakers

Plenary

- Professor Stuart Parkin, Max Planck Institute of Microstructure Physics and Martin Luther University Halle-Wittenberg, Germany

Invited

- Dr Elizabeth Blackburn, University of Birmingham, UK
- Professor Steven Blundell, University of Oxford, UK

Call for abstracts

Contributions for oral and/or poster presentations are invited. Abstracts of a maximum of 200 words and one figure should be submitted online via the website at <http://magnetism2015.iopconfs.org/abstract>.

Exhibition

A two-day table-top exhibition will be held alongside the conference. The exhibition will provide companies in the field and related areas of magnetism the opportunity to demonstrate their products to a captive audience.
